

Greig Trout

Greig Trout is the founder of 101 Things To Do When You Survive, a website and initiative designed to inspire people to live fulfilling lives and pursue their dreams, whilst helping others along the way.

About Greig

In 2013, after recovering from cancer for the second time with just one kidney, part of his large bowel missing, deep vein thrombosis and coping with the effects of PTSD, Greig created 101 Things To Do When You Survive and set off on a two year adventure around the world.

101 Things To Do When You Survive

The original aim of 101 Things To Do When You Survive was to help people experiencing ill-health to feel excited about the future, instead of fearing it. But it has become about much more than that, and has appealed to a far wider audience than Greig ever imagined. Throughout his travels, Greig wrote a highly acclaimed blog at www.whenyousurvive.com and also made videos of his journey.

On his two year journey Greig travelled through 23 countries, ticking things off his 'anti-bucket' list including hiking through Patagonia, boarding down a live volcano and even singing on stage at the Sydney Opera House on live TV, to name but a few. He also volunteered, fundraised for various charities, raised awareness of mental health issues and most importantly inspired people to believe that anything is possible.

In 2014 he was named in the Independent on Sunday's 'Happy' list which comprises the top 100 people in the UK that make life better for others.

"Greig is truly one brave man, and is determined to shine a light and help inspire those who have faced real battles. I admire his courage and resolve so much. No wonder he is a Scout"

"Greig was the final speaker during our annual fundraising conference and we were completely unprepared for the rollercoaster journey he led us through, sharing some of his most challenging life experiences alongside witty and human anecdotes from his adventures to date. Greig is incredibly charismatic and a wonderfully natural speaker who instinctively seems to know when to lighten the mood and when to take you to the edge of tears. We left the session re-energised and utterly inspired!"
